This book is dedicated to my mother, Debbie. You were always there for me when I needed it the most.

Thanks Ma for everything, I love you

Coach’s Nightmare

PROLOGUE

July 5, 2011, a hot and humid summer night at an old Veterans hall, at seven o'clock; Damien and Sam are the last to arrive. Damien peaks his head out into the hallway to see if anyone else will be attending this meeting.

He slowly turns the cold metal knob with his right hand, and the lock is quietly inserted into the slot. With his left hand A Coach's Nightmare on the crease of the A Coach's Nightmare door, he slowly pushes it closed; with his right hand on the door knob, he makes sure only a very subtle closing click of the hinge A Coach's Nightmare can be heard.

Once Damien closes the door, he turns to Sam and gives him a shrug, letting him know that it's time to start the meeting. By all accounts, Damien knows deep down that this meeting shouldn't happen, but with Sam pulling the strings, he feels that he doesn't have a say in the matter.

Out of a possible twenty two, only eight members of the Board of Directors are in attendance. Most of the Board of Director meetings that are conducted throughout the year usually have so few members attend. This meeting, just like all the others, seems to be just as irrelevant. Sam and Damien along with Adam, Rodney, and six other members are present.

There is no agenda.

There is no form which is typically passed out prior to the start of any meeting.

A Coach's Nightmare

It is quite confusing for the members that are here because they have no idea what this meeting could be about. A Coach's Nightmare

Sam, as forthright as he usually is, starts to conduct the A Coach's Nightmare board meeting.

“As you all can tell, we don’t have an agenda for this meeting. To be honest, Damien and I didn’t want to leave a paper trail. This meeting is about Frank Grover. What we are about to say cannot leave this meeting, cannot leave this room, and it cannot be discussed with anyone else. We shall not mention it to Frank himself or even talk about it after we conduct this meeting. We did not mention this meeting to Jack, because he and Frank are best friends. If you would like to continue this conversation, A Coach's Nightmare go right ahead,” Sam looks over towards Damien. Damien nods and begins to speak.

“Lately we have been getting a few phone calls stating that Frank has become an inconvenience. I personally received a phone call from Lisa Jaxon’s fiancé, Johnnie, stating how much of a nuisance Frank is to Lisa and her son, Ben. Johnnie called me the other night in an uproar stating that Frank should not be at the ball field A Coach's Nightmare where Lisa’s son is playing. Even though he was invited to go to the game by a member of the opposing team, Johnnie said that he should know better not to go.”
