JESUS WAS A BLACK MAN

Eula Mae was a shadow of her former self, a woman broken down by time and the cruelty of mother -nature. She sat in the church in a wheelchair trembling, remembering a time she wasn’t so frail and helpless; relying on the good will of others to survive. Eula used to be an energetic woman full of spirit and life that was infectious to everyone around her. Today she was losing herself to a battle with an unforgiving cancer trapped in her breast.

Eula Mae was seventy five. She held on with every ounce of dignity she had and smiled despite excruciating pain. The church prayed for her. Her children cried for her. The doctor said it was too late. As the reverend Sherman Jones spoke, the church BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR vibrated with life. Eula Mae could BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR feel the spirit of God move through her like a flash of light.

It got good to the point she got happy, as most old school Christians did. She forgot her illness and fell from the wheel chair, lying almost lifeless on the ground. Her eye's span to the back of her head like a slot machine. All of the preaching stopped. The organ player stopped. The congregation and the BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR music stopped. Pastor Jones made BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR his way to where she laid on the ground trying to cling to life. Tears rolled from his eyes as he tried to revive her with little luck. There wasn't a dry face in the building. Eula Mae was still breathing but barely able to take air.

That was when he appeared. He was strong, muscular BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR and handsome with hair like lamb's wool. His presence made you feel like God was in the building without saying a word. He was dressed in standard street clothing, yet there was something ethereal about him. The entire congregation looked upon him in awe, their eye's fixated like they'd seen the world's ninth wonder.

The man walked forward and stood over Eula Mae. His hand illuminated itself and he touched her heart. Her body glowed like an angel. The soft light was BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR warm and inviting. That was when the miracle happened. Eula Mae's skin was no longer paper thin and fragile, but smooth as silk. She was no longer barely able to speak, yet understandable. She stood up and began to chant the only thing she knew to say.

"Thank you Jesus! Thank you God for healing me!"

The congregation had never seen anything like it. The woman's cancer and BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR pain had vanished. As the church became chaotic, the mysterious man walked away without BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR announcing BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR his departure. Curious, Pastor Jones met him at the entrance and asked the most obvious question.

---

“Sir, that was amazing. I never got your name.”

The mysterious man paused and spoke.

“Jesus.”

Sherman looks back at the man confused. It couldn't be.

“Jesus! Jesus who?”

The mysterious stranger looks at the man in complete seriousness and says BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR words that will not only change his life, but the life of those around him.

“Jesus Christ.”

Sherman's jaw hang open like he just saw God himself. Before he could ask another question the man disappeared into the mist. It was almost like he was dreaming, and the happenings were plucked from the twilight zone.

Later on the ride home his wife Maxine, a consummate homemaker, and his son Saul, a rebellious high school teen, discussed the situation.

“That man that healed Eula Mae told me he was Jesus.”

“Jesus who?”

---

“Jesus Christ.”

“Did he say Christ?”

“He said Christ Maxine.”

“That’s crazy.”

“I don’t know. How would you explain the healing?”

There was silence in BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR the car. After a minute his son Saul spoke his mind.

“Maybe he is Jesus.”

His father interrupts.

“You’re talking crazy son.”

“Am I? The Bible said he’d come back.”

“Yeah, but it didn’t say he’d be um.....I BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR mean um.....”

---

“Black? Because I don’t know what Bible you read, but the Bible I read says he has hair like lamb’s wool. It says skin like burnt bronze. And BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR Jesus was born in a region where the people were dark. Ancient texts say the original Hebrews and Jews were black.”

“What you trying to say boy?”

“That was Jesus daddy. Jesus was a black man.”

Sherman didn’t know what to believe. All he’d known was the he’d witnessed a miracle and there wasn’t another explanation. This couldn’t have been Jesus. Sherman was reared on the lily white variation. When he’d pray, he BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR always saw a white man with long, silky hair. This miracle he witnessed in the church changed everything. He was still trying to piece it together in his mind.

Eula Mae called the pastor later and said she was in better health than she’d ever been. She told the pastor she owed everything to the mysterious stranger. When Sherman told her the man called himself Jesus Christ she still believed him. Sherman tried to convince her otherwise.

“But Eula Mae. The man who healed you was a black man.”

“I BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR know pastor. And that man was Jesus.”

The man that saved her life had in BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR fact been Jesus, yet not as the world expected or knew from religious texts. There was no flaming sword, no exposed feet or swaddling clothing. There was only a man who was concerned and ready to assist the needy, a small glimpse into things to come.

Jesus Christ was born to Barack and Mary Christ on January 1, 1970. From the time BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR he was pulled from his mother kicking and screaming he wasn't like other children. He never cursed or talked back to his elders. He'd BLACK CHRIST: RISE OF A MODERN DAY SAVIOR never gotten into trouble or gone on punishment.

School was also different for him. Jesus never got less than an A on any assignment, or was late with his homework. He'd never been in a fist fight or fornicated with a girl. He never drank or took a puff off a cigarette. Jesus got a perfect score on his SATS and was made to take them again. The second time was perfection as well. For all practical purposes he was without flaw, unlike any teenager the world had known.

Out of the ordinary was commonplace when Jesus was coming up. When he was eight he cracked his ankle on a rock and was barely able to walk. His finger illuminated itself and he touched the wound. He was healed.
