INTRODUCTION

Once upon a time there were three little piggies. The first little piggy had a church made of straw, the second little piggy had a church made of Debunking Darwin's God: A Case Against BioLogos and Theistic Evolution wood, and the third little piggy had a church made of brick.

Well, unfortunately for those little piggies, the big bad science wolf Debunking Darwin's God: A Case Against BioLogos and Theistic Evolution blew those straw and wooden churches all to hell (pardon the pun). The piggies ran away and huddled inside the brick church. It was their last stand against the big Debunking Darwin's God: A Case Against BioLogos and Theistic Evolution bad science wolf.

"Oh mercy me!" cried the little pigs. "What ever will we do?"

"I know," said the first little piggy. "Let's torture and kill that old science wolf! We could accuse him of witchcraft and burn him at the stake!"

"I have a better idea," said the second little piggy. "Let's just ignore him and hope and pray he Debunking Darwin's God: A Case Against BioLogos and Theistic Evolution goes away."

"I have the best idea," said the third little piggy. "Let's make science part of our religious dogma!"

And that's exactly what the three little piggies did. They made science part of their religious dogma. That is also what Kenneth R. Miller and the BioLogos crowd have attempted to do. As you will see, the results are nothing short of silly, like the story about those three piggies. I Debunking Darwin's God: A Case Against BioLogos and Theistic Evolution mean, trying to combine science and religion is like trying to put a glass slipper on Big Foot.

Anyway, there are many atheist books on the market that address theists who are hostile toward science and who interpret the bible literally. The purpose of this book, and the essays that follow, is to address and debunk those theists who don't interpret the bible literally and who have a strong appreciation for science. It's high time someone threw a metaphysical monkey wrench into their complacent machinery of theistic evolution or evolutionary creationism. It's time to debunk Darwin's God! So let's get it on!

KEN MILLER IS THE NEW AND SLIGHTLY IMPROVED MICHAEL BEHE

"I believe in Darwin's God."--Kenneth R. Miller

Imagine you live during the time of Galileo and you find out the Church and science are having a bit of a conflict. The Church insists the earth is the center of the universe and everything in the heavens revolves around it, but science says the earth orbits the sun and can't possibly be the center of the universe. Enter Giuseppe Miller...perhaps an ancestor of Ken Miller. He tells the Church and scientists to stop quarrelling. He has the answer. So the Church puts off burning the scientists at the stake. (Phew! That was close.) Here is Giuseppe's answer: "Both the Church and the scientists are right. If God says earth is the center, then that is the truth. If science says the earth orbits the sun, then that is the truth. Perhaps one of these truths should not be taken literally."

The following day Giuseppe Miller is burned at the stake.

Fortunately, the story above is fiction. In reality, the wrong answer gave way to the right one. Today, even Ken Miller believes the earth orbits the sun. But Miller, like Giuseppe, can't resist trying to unite a right answer to a wrong one. Within his book Finding Darwin's God, Miller proposes that God used evolution to create life. He reasons that if evolution is false, then God is a great deceiver. Albeit, Miller fails to recognize that his God is a great deceiver in any case. For example, for centuries God has fooled believers into believing the creation myth when he really just sat back and let evolution do the work.
