children alike. The Lab is considered a good hunting dog, qualifies as an excellent therapy or service dog and comes in three colors; yellow, black and chocolate. A rare but beautiful mutation is the silver Lab. Although they would do best in a home with a yard, the Lab can also do well in an apartment when provided ample exercise through daily walks or jogging. According to the Dog Breeds: A Guide to the Labrador and What You Need to Know Before Adopting One American Kennel Club, this dog is classified as a Gun Dog in the sporting Dog Breeds: A Guide to the Labrador and What You Need to Know Before Adopting One breed category.

Description of the Labrador retriever

Labrador retrievers are available in two types, the American and English varieties. Dog Breeds: A Guide to the Labrador and What You Need to Know Before Adopting One They differ in body structure with the English Lab having a heavier body while the American Lab is rather tall and lanky. Both types of Labs have a smooth, dense double coat of fur. Although the common colors are black, chocolate and yellow, there is also a rare gray or silver-colored Labrador retriever. The silver mutation is controversial and AKC claims it to be a variation of the chocolate Lab while others believe it is due to a crossbreeding with a Weinerainer breed.
