Alhambra Apartments

The Alhambra Apartments is a historic apartment building, that is located in the Cass Park Historic District of Detroit. The apartment building was originally built as a six story, twenty four unit apartment complex, in 1885. The property was originally known as Alhambra Flats, since apartment buildings in the area were usually known as flats during the 19th century.

The Alhambra Flats originally served the upper-middle class of Detroit, including the likes of Harvey Firestone, who later founded the Firestone Tire Company. Ghosts of Detroit: The Haunted Locations of Detroit, Michigan The property was at one point converted into a hotel, known as the Embassy, but was then re-converted into smaller apartments.

In more recent years, Ghosts of Detroit: The Haunted Locations of Detroit, Michigan the property has been used to house a more downscale population. As of the early 2000's, only the two bottom floors were Ghosts of Detroit: The Haunted Locations of Detroit, Michigan used as housing, and the floors above have been left in a state of disrepair.

The Alhambra apartment building, which is now said to be one of the most places in the state of Michigan, has been said to be haunted since the early 1900's. The haunting is believed to be associated with an infamous poisoning, which took place in the Alhambra Flats in its early years.

In 1905, the Alhambra Flats had a small restaurant located in the lower left section of the building. The restaurant was known as the Alhambra Dining Room, and a woman named Rose Barron was one of the cooks that worked in the restaurant.

Rose Barron was then demoted from cook to scrubwoman of the restaurant, and in a fit of rage, Rose slipped arsenic into a batch of biscuits, poisoning nineteen patrons of the restaurant, all of whom lived in the apartments. It's said that at least two died from the poisoning, but Rose was acquitted after a long trial.

Ever since shortly after the poisoning, residents of the building began to report seeing a shadow like apparition wandering throughout the property. Over the years, other residents began to report hearing strange noises Ghosts of Detroit: The Haunted Locations of Detroit, Michigan throughout the building, and phantom footsteps throughout the hallways. Other strange activity has been reported at the apartment complex throughout the years, such as items being moved around by an unseen force, and an unseen figure that occasionally brushes past people in the hallways. Many Ghosts of Detroit: The Haunted Locations of Detroit, Michigan believe it to be the spirits of those Ghosts of Detroit: The Haunted Locations of Detroit, Michigan that died after the poisoning, and some believe that they've been joined by the spirits of other former residents of the building throughout the years.
