The Secrets of Chinese Astrology

In this lesson you will be studying Chinese astrology, the ancient oriental form of astrology.

You will discover how to give a character reading using the very different principles of Chinese astrology, and how to market this original and unusual mantic art.

What You Will Achieve

By the end of this lesson you will be able to prepare and successfully market Chinese astrological readings. You will have become a Chinese astrologer!

What Is Chinese Astrology?

The mantic art of Chinese astrology (known to the Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology Chinese people as Ming Shui) dates from around 3000BC when the Emperor of the time, Huang Ti, introduced the first calendar which was based on the phases of the moon. Ming Shui actually means 'the reckoning of fate'.

There are few direct Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology comparisons between western astrology and Chinese astrology. However Chinese astrologers also believe, as western astrologers do, that the forces existing in and around the earth at the time of an individual's birth govern their character and their future prospects.

The Chinese Calendar

In Chinese astrology the passage of each year is said to be determined by the T'ai sui, an imaginary planet that passes through the heavens mirroring the orbit of the planet Jupiter. It is the position of this planet that determines the Chinese calendar.

A Chinese year is based on the lunar year of 12 months with each month divided into 29.5 days, unlike the system used in the west where a year consists of Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology (normally) 365 days unequally divided into months.

Every two and a half years an extra month is added to adjust the calendar, as opposed to the leap year system in the west, in which a day is added every four years. You may have Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology noticed how the Chinese New Year celebrations occur on a different date each year. This is because it is based upon the lunar year.

Unlike western astrology Chinese astrology operates on a 12 year rather than a 12 month cycle. Each year is governed by a sign but, unlike the signs of the zodiac used in western astrology, the Chinese system uses animal signs. The year of your birth and your personality is ruled by the animal sign which governs it.

Unlike in western astrology, the signs in Chinese astrology are not linked to the Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology passage of the stars but, rather, to the passage of the years.

An additional facet to the Chinese system is that each year is also governed by one of the five basic elements, which are:

- Metal.
- Water.
- Wood.
- Fire.
- Earth.

These elements exert their influence on each year in a rotating order with, in turn, a positive and a negative influence. These forces can also modify the basic personality profile fixed by the year of birth.

Despite these key differences a Chinese astrological reading is much less complex to calculate and prepare than a western astrological reading, so for this reason alone you should consider it. Also, it will be seen as being a bit different from the usual western astrology.

At its simplest it consists of taking the year of birth and thus determining the ruling sign and the influences which are exerted upon it. It is not necessary to make complex calculations based on the exact date, time and place of birth as in western astrology.

Chinese astrology places a much greater emphasis on:

- Impressions.
Feelings.

And the impact of the natural world around us rather than mathematical Predictions Profits

Character Analysis

Because Chinese astrology is a more generalised mantic art than western astrology every Chinese astrological reading is essentially a character analysis only, unlike western astrology which analyses several different aspects of an individual's make up.

In this lesson I explain the various aspects which make up a character reading to a level which is sufficient to give a basic Chinese astrological reading.

Further study of the subject will allow you to give more complex readings, and some recommendations for further reading are provided at the end of this course.

Understanding the Signs

Before proceeding with an understanding of Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology the Chinese astrological signs it is useful to consider the origin of the Chinese signs and their relevance within the system.

According to Chinese belief Lord Buddha called all the animals of the world in front of him before he departed this earth. Of all the world's animals, only twelve completed the journey and, as a reward, each of these twelve animals had a year named after them in perpetuity. Chinese astrologers firmly believe that those born under each sign closely exhibit the characteristics of the relevant animal.

Personalities of Animals

It Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology is important to Predictions Profits Lesson 8: Chinese Astrology appreciate that Chinese understanding of the personality of each animal differs greatly from western understanding.
