Romance in the Mist

Brian and Kate strolled peacefully down the path which cut through the green fields. The grass on each side of the path was the greenest and healthiest grass Kate had ever seen. It was lush and long, and exuded a fresh scent that permeated the air.

She enjoyed visiting Brian in this part of the world. Brian lived in this little town and she had come to see him during a long weekend break. The weather here was usually a bit misty early in the morning, and Kate struggled to see more Romance in the Mist: A Plain, Clean & Wholesome Romance than half-way across the field as the mist was swirling around the town in the valley Romance in the Mist: A Plain, Clean & Wholesome Romance beyond. It made this walk very romantic, because the curling clouds of moist air made them feel as if they were in a world of their own, concealed in their cocoon of quietness.

Kate pulled her collar up over her neck to keep out the light chill. She snuggled closer to Brian and they walked silently towards the old wooden gate at the end of the path. She also loved the silence that seemed to accompany this romantic mist. It was as if it arrived to cloak the town with a muffler. Everything got very still and quiet and that added to the mysterious and beautiful time she was sharing with her Brian on this early morning. They leaned into each other gently as they cuddle-walked to their gate, which was the exit point from this lush field.

Eventually, they reached the old wooden gate. Brian lifted the gate slightly to make it easier to pull out the latch, then gently opened it for Kate to walk through. That was the other thing Kate loved about Brian – his good, old-fashioned manners. He was a gentle yet confident man and always handled her like a real lady. His way with her made her feel special and appreciated. Kate was always very happy when she was with Brian.

They made their way through the rickety old gate and onto the country road that led towards the town. Right now, that town was totally obscured Romance in the Mist: A Plain, Clean & Wholesome Romance from view, as it snuggled under the whirling mist. Kate and Brian walked briskly in the direction of Jack's, which was a comfortable, cozy coffee shop where they liked to hang out together when they Romance in the Mist: A Plain, Clean & Wholesome Romance had some time off. Today was Saturday and they made it through the door out of the chilly, damp air and into the warm coffee shop just in time for Romance in the Mist: A Plain, Clean & Wholesome Romance the first aromatic brew Romance in the Mist: A Plain, Clean & Wholesome Romance of coffee at Jack's.

Sitting in their favourite spot, Kate and Brian enjoyed their coffee and muffins and watched as the new sun started burning away the wisps of mist. Kate wanted this moment to last forever. She didn't want to have to go away at the end of the weekend. This was where she felt happy and at peace, at Brian's side in this quiet, country town where people still found time to chat over the garden fence. They would walk instead of drive and simply took time out in the day to experience and feel the world around them.
