Spencer Haze – An Introduction and Apologies

Spencer Haze was actually born in 2000. His job was to help promote Channel 4 website for all things motoring. So as Spencer Haze - Won't Get Fooled Again well as cheery promotions for Driven and Deals on Wheels, it was briefly the home to the world's first online graphic novel aimed at people who like cars. It lasted for around 62 frames before Channel 4 decided that they didn't want any more, so clearly the world wasn't ready for it. The story had not reached a conclusion and I had no incentive to finish it. I did craft a television script based on what I had written, because I thought that it would be amusing if someone from 1973 pitched up in the politically correct new millennium. The sort of real bloke who punched first and asked questions later. He probably smoked heavily and used Brut aftershave Spencer Haze - Won't Get Fooled Again too.

So I sent it to all the major TV stations ITV, Channel 4 and the BBC, plus dozens of independent production companies. All I got was a folder full of rejection slips. Then in 2006 I noticed that there was a brand new drama series featuring a policeman transported back to 1973. Others thought that Spencer Haze had made the small screen. Certainly there were similarities. I did mention in the opening frames of Spencer Haze that he had landed on another planet. There were new cars morphing into old ones in the trailers. Oh yes and there was a female guide to his new environment and a TV that talked to Haze. So it was Spencer Haze reversed, going back to 1973 rather than forward to a new century, which I thought was more interesting. Spencer Haze - Won't Get Fooled Again Although I had a public spat with the writers, producers and the BBC about it, I wasn't going to get anywhere. So I forgot about Spencer for 12 years.

Fast forward to 2011. Some people asked what Spencer Haze - Won't Get Fooled Again happened to Spencer so I thought it was time that I completed the story. So here for the first time is exactly what happened to Spencer and Saffron and just what the whole conspiracy was all about. I do apologise for my individual drawing skills which mean Spencer Haze - Won't Get Fooled Again that sometimes Spencer looks a bit different and so does Saffron for that matter. So maybe I can't draw girls or boys. Well, I looked at a lot of graphic novels, or comics, and they had dozens of pencillers, colourists, writers, editors and even their frames Spencer Haze - Won't Get Fooled Again varied hugely, so I don't feel too bad that it was just me doing everything. I am a bit colour blind, but I think that makes it all look a lot brighter and vibrant. The backgrounds are not that detailed, but I wanted to move the story along as fast as I could, aiming for a film style storyboard feel with quick cuts between the scenes.

For all you anoraks out there, I have tried to draw the correct car for the era and I don't want to spoil what's coming next by justifying what I did where, but do drop me a line if anything upsets you or looks wrong and I will try and explain it away.
